

Ketamine

Ketamine (KEE - - - - -), is a dissociative anesthetic. It is used in veterinary medicine and human medicine for anesthesia. It is also used recreationally as a hallucinogen. It is a Schedule III controlled substance. It is a dissociative anesthetic. It is used in veterinary medicine and human medicine for anesthesia. It is also used recreationally as a hallucinogen. It is a Schedule III controlled substance.

What does it look like?

Ketamine is a white, crystalline powder. It is often sold in small packets or vials. It is highly soluble in water and alcohol. It is often sold as a racemic mixture of two enantiomers, (S)-ketamine and (R)-ketamine.

What are its effects?

Ketamine is a dissociative anesthetic. It is used in veterinary medicine and human medicine for anesthesia. It is also used recreationally as a hallucinogen. It is a Schedule III controlled substance. It is a dissociative anesthetic. It is used in veterinary medicine and human medicine for anesthesia. It is also used recreationally as a hallucinogen. It is a Schedule III controlled substance.

Date Rape Drugs

